

Healthy Futures Program

A culturally grounded, community-driven initiative bringing food access and nutrition education to ZIP code 74106

Understanding Our Community

North Tulsa's 74106 ZIP code has faced decades of systemic barriers to food access. The legacy of the Greenwood massacre, urban renewal, and historical disinvestment created a persistent food desert affecting health outcomes and life expectancy.

$30K

Median Income

About half the Tulsa
metro median

33%

Poverty Rate

One in three residents

0

Full-Service Grocers

Extremely low
proximity to stores

Our Solution: Loyalty & Learning

The Healthy Futures Program combines two powerful tools: rewarding healthy purchases and celebrating community learning. Inspired by historic Green Stamps, we're creating a system that honors cultural food traditions while removing barriers to nutritious eating.

Earn Points Shopping

Every healthy purchase adds up—from fresh produce to whole grains to plant-based proteins

Earn Points Learning

Cooking demos, nutrition classes, and community workshops all build your point balance

Redeem for Tools

Trade points for kitchen essentials, appliances, produce boxes, and meal kits

How Points Work

Base Point System

- Whole foods: 5 points per $5 spent on fresh produce, whole grains, lean proteins
- Local vendors: 6 points per $5 supporting community businesses
- Plant-based proteins: 7 points per $5 for beans, lentils, and more
- Refined grains: 2 points per $5
- Processed snacks: 1 point per $5

Every dollar you spend builds toward rewards—and healthier purchases earn significantly more points. This system makes the healthy choice the rewarding choice.

Bonus Points Opportunities

Double Points Tuesdays

Every Tuesday, all healthy purchases earn double points to boost weekday shopping

Seniors Day Bonus

Seniors receive an extra 20% bonus on all points earned during special weekly hours

Youth Shopper Bonus

Families earn +10 points when children help with shopping, building healthy habits early

Cultural Food Bonus

Ingredients tied to Black, Indigenous, and Latinx traditions earn +5 extra points

Learning Activities That Earn Points

Education is the foundation of lasting change. Participate in community activities and watch your points grow while building cooking confidence and nutrition knowledge.

Chef Demonstrations

50 points per session

Weekly classes showing 20-minute affordable meals using local ingredients

Mama's Kitchen Club

75 points per class

Prenatal nutrition, feeding toddlers, meal prep shortcuts for busy families

Taste & Move Sessions

40 points per session

Low-sodium cooking demos with chair movement and budgeting tips for seniors

Health Screenings

30 points per visit

Partner organization wellness checks that monitor your health journey

Reaching Every Corner of 74106

Community Anchors

- North Tulsa churches with senior populations
- McLain and Monroe schools
- Ben Hill Center and Rudisill Library
- Bus stops, laundromats, corner stores
- Tulsa Housing Authority buildings

Youth Ambassadors

Teens ages 14-18 distribute recipe cards at school dismissal, earning community service hours while spreading the word about Healthy Futures.

Digital outreach includes Facebook community boards, text alerts for bonus items, and short cooking videos.

Cultural Foods, Familiar Flavors

Healthy eating must feel familiar, not foreign. We celebrate ingredients and recipes that honor North Tulsa's rich cultural heritage and food traditions.

Soul Food Traditions
Collard greens, sweet potatoes, whole-grain cornbread, smoked
turkey, black-eyed peas

Indigenous Ingredients

Three sisters: beans, squash, and corn in traditional preparations

Diaspora Flavors

Afro-Caribbean recipes honoring diverse cultural connections and family histories

Powerful Partnerships

OSU-Tulsa

Dietetics students lead classes, faculty develop recipes, public health interns measure impact

OK Health Department

SNAP-Ed curriculum, on-site screenings, maternal health resources, cooking educators

City of Tulsa TSET

Grants for nutrition classes, marketing support, healthy pantry certification, mobile outreach

Together with mobile pantries, churches, community centers, and school food distributions, we're building a comprehensive network that meets families where they are.

Building Healthy Futures Together

This program honors decades of resilience in North Tulsa. It treats healthy eating as a right, not a luxury, and rebuilds community power through dignity, cultural tradition, and family connection.

- Success looks like: More produce purchases, increased cooking confidence, reduced food waste, stronger community bonds, and improved health outcomes across 74106.

Join us in creating a healthier, more vibrant North Tulsa—one meal, one family, one neighborhood at a time.

